

Does it matter what field of study I plan on taking?

No. You may take any field of study as long as you are attending a program that is at an accredited institution.